FOR THE LOVE OF WAKE SPORTS

DRIVING MATTERS

If you enjoy riding a tube, are a pro water skier or wakeboarder, or fall somewhere in between, your driver is much more than the person who sits behind the wheel and moves the throttle. In fact, the driver is crucial for delivering a successful, fun and safe experience behind the boat.

Whether your wake sports are done behind a pontoon boat, a family runabout, a fishing boat, cruiser or specialized wake sport boat, learn the keys to become a better and safer wake sport driver.

TECHNIQUE MATTERS

Water skiing, wakeboarding, wake surfing and barefooting share certain basic techniques. They include optimal balance over your feet, handle position and line control, using the lower body to do the work, maintaining a quiet upper body, breathing and proper focus.

Learn the keys to excel in your favorite wake sport and have even more success and fun while staying safe behind the boat.

EQUIPMENT MATTERS

How you attach the line to the boat, and the shape of the wake are important factors to providing optimal conditions. When choosing equipment, keep in mind that correctly sized water skis, wakeboards and life jackets appropriate for each person's ability level will provide the safest and quickest learning experience. For example, lines and handles are sport specific.

Learn which accessories will optimize the towing capabilities of your boat, and which equipment will enhance fun and safety.

ZENON BILAS

Zenon Bilas has been a wake sports enthusiast since learning to water ski in 1975. Two years later, he mastered barefoot water skiing. As a competitor, coach and journalist, Zenon Bilas has had a firsthand view of water skiing as it has evolved into the multiple wake sports enjoyed today. His articles have been featured in magazines throughout the USA and internationally.

As a coach, he has traveled throughout the USA and 20 countries, teaching beginners and champions. Zenon continues to compete, winning a gold medal in slalom in Open division at the 2018 USA Barefoot National Championship for his 8th national title.
